INFORMATION GOVERNANCE & DATA PROTECTION TRAINING [PRACTITIONER LEVEL]

The Information Governance Practitioner & Data Protection Training Course is a highly anticipated, BCS-accredited programme designed for professionals across industries, including health and care, education, finance, IT, and more. Delivered online through a blend of self-study and online, expert-led sessions, this course provides participants with the knowledge and practical skills to excel in data privacy and governance.

Featuring real-world examples, expert guidance from industry leaders, and small cohort sizes for personalised learning, this flexible programme is ideal for busy professionals seeking to enhance their expertise and drive meaningful change in their fields.

ABOUT US

Led by two renowned figures in the UK Information Governance landscape, Tania Palmariellodiviney and Barry Moulton, our team brings unmatched expertise and a proven record of excellence. With decades of experience at both strategic and operational levels, they have significantly shaped IG practices across diverse sectors, including health and care, education, local government, finance, tech and start ups.

Tania and Barry are celebrated for their impactful contributions to the field, from influencing national IG policies and leading innovative projects to mentoring countless professionals and speaking at prominent national conferences. Known for their dynamic approach and practical solutions, they set the benchmark for excellence in Information Governance and Data Protection. Whether you're a newcomer or an experienced practitioner, learning with us means learning from the very best.

OBJECTIVE

This programme not only provides learners with a thorough understanding of information governance but also focuses on the practical skills needed to apply them effectively. With an emphasis on the "how" as much as the "what," participants will be empowered to design, implement, and manage robust IG programmes in real-world settings.

DELIVERY

This programme blends self-guided study, proactive research, and live online sessions with expert tutors, combining practical skills with in-depth knowledge to empower learners to confidently develop and manage IG programmes.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

A solid understanding of information governance principles and foundational knowledge of data protection is recommended for enrolment in this programme. However, those with limited prior knowledge can still succeed with additional effort and dedication to their studies.

OVERVIEW

The course spans 5 modules over a period of 5 months. Participants will receive comprehensive resources, access to an online learning platform for exams and supplementary materials, as well as opportunities to join study groups and forums. Each module includes two live online tutor sessions, featuring practical guidance, interactive discussions, and real-world applications to reinforce learning.
